

VERMONT CHILDREN'S TRUST FOUNDATION

Fall 2007

Community Creates Good Kids

Camp Exclamation Point provides a one week, free, residential summer camp program for children with limited opportunities from rural Vermont. We run a traditional program with many choices in arts and crafts, nature, sports, music, swimming and boating. Each summer more than 100 children between the ages of eight and fourteen come to camp. Our staff of 80 volunteers adds their extraordinary energy and unique interests to make CAMP! a magical place.

Kingdom County Productions is producing The Voices Project Movie. The film is based on the acclaimed and successful Voices Project theatre production that toured Vermont during the fall of 2005. The feature film is based on the original musical that toured to 13 towns across Vermont which was derived from writings by Vermont teenagers with original music by teens, articulating the issues they face. The stories and characters were developed during an intensive, yearlong statewide research phase in which more than 1000 teens participated.

This summer youth from Common Ground enjoyed several hiking trips, organic gardening, movie nights, and outdoor games! Hiking presents the opportunity to get off the couch and experience nature while learning key practices of "Leave no Trace" ethics. Common Ground Youth Center serves youth from nine different communities within Franklin County. In this photo a participant enjoys making fresh salsa with produce from the garden. Youth volunteered at a local organic farm to learn basic practices of taking care of a garden, and then created raised beds and planted and maintained the gardens. Produce was given to community members, youth created salsa and made dinners with fresh potatoes, and salad ingredients.

It's a little early to be thinking about tax season, but we wanted to remind you that by donating on Line 29B of your Vermont State income tax form, you help Vermont children. 100% of your 29B donation supports programs that work to prevent physical and emotional abuse, substance abuse, school failure and violence among children.

Be part of the community that creates good kids this tax season.

We're in Your Community

The Vermont Children's Trust Foundation is honored to support the organizations you see here. Thanks to your generous gifts, our grantees are able to provide high quality programming for children and families. They are supported by Hilda Green, VCTF's grants administrator, and Ruth Matthews at the Agency of Human Services.

I have had the joy of visiting all of our grantees this past year. I have watched preschool children explore nature with expert child development professionals who are also learned nature interpreters; talked to teens who help to create programming at the teen center in their town; and observed new American parents learn English and parenting skills while their children play nearby. I can attest that each one of these programs uniquely meets the needs of their communities and their individual clients.

These programs are providing important services with the goal of stopping problems before they start. And they wouldn't happen without your generosity. Thank you for your ongoing support.

- Susan Kamp, Executive Director
